CORSON INFORMS GRADUATES LIFE HOLDS PROBLEMS

Largest Classes in History Of East Central Passes From Institution

CORSON IS SPEAKER

Noted Educator Deplores of Materialistic Trend and Intellectual Conceit

East Central's banner classes, the largest of her entire history, this morning received the degrees and life and high school diplomas which they have earned by years of effort.

The degree class which now goes out into life from the local college numbers 26, the greatest group ever to receive that rank of graduate from East Central, and a considerable increase over the first degree class of a few years ago.

The life certificate class was represented by a group numbering 132, also the largest of its kind ever graduated here. The high school graduates numbered 49.

Practically every member of the degree class has been a teacher while a considerable proportion of the life certificate people have had teaching experience, or intend to take up teaching as their profession.

The commencement exercises at the college this morning opened with the procession, played by the college orchestra, to the strains of which the graduates moved into the auditorium. Following their coming Rev. E. O. Whitwell pronounced the invocation.

The invocation was followed by the appearance of the girls glee club of the college who sang "Middy on the River, The Great Waterfall, The Finale," by Paul Bliss under the direction of Miss Margery Ballard. President Linscheid made the announcements for the remainder of the week, and Miss Bonnie Callis sang, "Morning, by Spenser."

Corson Is Speaker.

President Linscheid then introduced Dr. O. T. Corson, of the Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio, who was already well known and very popular with the teachers through a series of lectures delivered during the last district teachers meeting here.

Doctor Corson deplored the present conflict in many quarters between educators and religious men. He declared that while the public schools, which are becoming more and more a factor in modern life, are supported by the state, which is itself separated fully from the church, the schools and churches have the same sympathies and ideals aims and purposes.

Churches and schools are builders of character and are the most potent factors in modern progress. Both move hand in hand, supplementing each other.

Mr. Corson attributed most of the conflict of opinion to differences between religious fanatics who do not appreciate education, and those who developed their intelligence to a high point without a corresponding balance of spiritual advancement. He declared that either form of development, spiritual or intellectual, is by itself a menace.

Bible Reading Important.

The speaker referred to the fact that the foundation for America's public schools was the churches and the desire that all be able to read the Bible. Out of this grew our modern system, with Bible study eliminated, but there is a decided tendency to return to religious instruction in the schools. This tendency, he declared, expresses the conviction of thoughtful people that the problems that face the nation today may be solved only by the application of religious principles.

Doctor Corson also deplored a tendency to substitute material gain for religious development, which finds its basis in the heart. He declared that without spiritual discernment education leads to intellectual deceit. He also showed the limits of our knowledge, and emphasized the plea of "be fair" in consideration of spiritual things.

He then showed in some degree the influence that may be wielded by teachers, stating that they are teaching for eternity and plead with the graduates to do their share of the work of balancing intellectual conceit with spiritual discernment.

The address was followed by a violin solo, Alabama, played by Miss Lillian Strite, after which the degrees were conferred and certificates granted by President Linscheid of the college.

The male quartet, composed of Messrs. Turner, Steed, Parker and Faust, sang "Bells of Seville and All through the Night." The graduates moved out of the auditorium at the close of the program to the strains of the recessional, played by the orchestra.

FOUR TAKEN FROM COUNTY BY OFFICERS

County officers will have some pay check for their traveling expenses on transportation if demands for prisoner continue.

County officers left last night with four victims for state and national institutions or involuntary confinement.

Willie Maggart, an alleged deserter from the army was held here after his arrest at Stonewall and transported today to Lawton where the military arm at Fort Sill will take charge of the prisoner.

Three other prisoners were taken to Vinita where the state prison at that place will answer the demands. Chester DeLisle, who was returned to the institution after he had failed to walk the straight and narrow on parole, is alleged to have beat on his sister, breaking her jaw in an altercation two weeks ago. Johnny Johnson, negro, is being sent to Granite after pleading guilty to lifting a traveler's handbag and John Goodwin of Stratford is being sent up for his alleged connection with the auto ring prominently active last year.

DAUGHERTY TOOK NO FRAUD MONEY, CRIM MAINTAINS

Assistant Voices Faith In Honesty of Former Attorney General

DEPLORES CONDITIONS

Claims He Was Not in Accord With Daugherty's Methods In Office

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—An account of his faith in the honesty of Harry M. Daugherty was given by John W. Crim, who served with him throughout the troubled days of his tenure as head of the department of justice.

In his long and close association with the former attorney general Mr. Crim said he never found ground to suspect him of corruption.

"It will take strong evidence," he told the committee, "before I will believe that Harry M. Daugherty ever took a cent of corrupt money from Jess Smith. He had his faults but I shall have to judge the evidence myself before I will believe he prostituted his office."

In the present organization and management of the justice department, however, Mr. Crim said he found much to criticize during the time he had acted as assistant attorney general. The large list of men and women who now hold the title or assistants attorney general should be cut to two and they should be held responsible for results, he declared. He said the force of secret agents should be reduced nine-tenths and districts attorneys office taken out of politics and placed on an efficient basis.

The reason he finally resigned his high post in the department, he told the committee, was because the department of justice was not functioning as well as it might.

Much Inefficiency

Politics and inefficiency, he said, were encountered in many places in the vast legal organization over which Mr. Daugherty presided. He cited the war fraud cases as an example.

"I told the attorney general one day: 'You are going to lose every one of those cases because you have not the men who can handle them.' He told me to get a couple of lawyers to handle them. My search developed that all outstanding law had business before the government," the witness said.

"There were also some 'black-sheep' district attorneys," he said whose discharge he had recommended.

"Why did you resign?" Chairman Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, asked.

"I thought the department of justice was not functioning as well as it might," he explained, "and objected to most of all the department's detective service."

"The attorney general did not disagree with me," he continued, "but he considered the time had not come with congress seeking to provide other departments with detectives."

Attempt to be Made To Connect Men Trio With Burbank Robbery

(By the Associated Press)

PAWHUSKA, May 22.—Attempts will be made today to connect three men and a woman held in jail here with the robbery of the Farmers State bank at Burbank yesterday.

One of the suspects, believed to be Dick Gregg, an alleged member of the notorious Al Spencer gang, was so badly beaten in a fight with officers when arrested at Lyman that his face is almost hidden in bandages. The other suspects are Wendall Powell, Virgil Dobbins and Alta Gregg, said to be a sister of Dick Gregg. She is about 27 years old.

Farm Relief Bill Is Before Senate To Probable Vote

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The McNary-Haughen farm relief bill was again before the house today but leaders were somewhat at sea as to the probable vote on the measure.

Some supporters of the bill said enough votes were in sight to insure passage, but others were skeptical. On the other hand some opponents were confident that the proposal would be defeated but others were not so certain. Hope for a vote this week practically has been abandoned.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Oklahoma filed in supreme court today a protest against the report of the Texas-Oklahoma boundary commission appointed by the court.

Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, and Charlie Chaplin in the costume in which he is known all over the world.

The names of Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, twin sister of Mrs. Reginald K. Vanderbilt, and Charles Spencer Chaplin, world famous movie comedian, are being persistently linked in stories from Hollywood predicting a wedding. Mrs. Converse, who recently deserted New York's most exclusive social set to enter the movies, is separated, but not divorced from her first husband, James Converse, so the marriage cannot come to pass very soon.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE

President Linscheid Slated to Commemorate Deeds of War Heroes

All plans are complete for Memorial Day observance in Ada.

Memorial Day, May 30, will be one of sacred reminiscence to war veterans of Ada and Pontotoc county, if plans of the Norman Howard post, American Legion are carried out.

President A. Linscheid of East Central will deliver the Memorial Day address at the Convention Hall as the feature number of the program arranged by Program Chairman Charles L. Widney for 2 o'clock on Memorial Day.

The post considers itself fortunate in securing the presence of Dr. Linscheid for the occasion. A fluent speaker and friend of the ex-service men, veterans here consider the president of the local institution as one of the best fitted speakers for the occasion.

The remaining numbers on the program for Memorial Day will conform to the general theme of respect to the fallen heroes of war.

Prior to the Memorial Day services, the Ladies Auxiliary to the Norman Howard post, American Legion will conduct a poppy sale, an annual campaign for the relief of disabled buddies in the hospitals of the state.

The post will have 1200 poppies grown through the labors of disabled buddies in the hospitals of the state. Commander, Robert S. Kerr hopes that number will be sold during the drive.

A floral display on Memorial Day is expected to be one of the features of the occasion. Home grown roses will be placed on the Convention Hall stage during the program, thence carried to the cemetery where the dead of all wars will be remembered through a floral barrage on their graves.

Didn't Know Why She Shot Hubby

(By the Associated Press)

WEWOKA, May 22.—Mrs. Jessie Ray, 34, charged with killing her husband, A. S. Ray, 37, at Cromwell, a small oil town near Wewoka following a quarrel, will be given a preliminary hearing here Friday morning.

"I don't know why I killed my husband, unless it was because I gave way to my high temper," the woman is said to have told officers.

She said they quarreled over the disposal of a barber shop which Ray operated and that he slapped her in a cafe. Ray was shot soon after leaving the cafe.

Tax Reduction Bill Facing Final Fight For Senate Action

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The tax reduction bill facing a welcome from almost every quarter of congress was ready today for final legislative action. The reported adjustment between senate and house conferees went through the formal process yesterday.

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee expected to present it to the senate without delay. It was not considered likely that the report would be taken up before tomorrow.

Rich Owens Found Guilty on Charge Of Manslaughter

(By the Associated Press)

PAWHUSKA, May 22.—Rich Owens charged with slaying C. J. Vandruuff, was this morning found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in district court. The verdict asked the judge to fix the penalty. The jury had been out since 2 o'clock last night and reported the verdict at 10 o'clock.

Owen was charged with slaying a highway construction gang foreman last April at a construction camp near Hominy. He alleged that Vandruuff had insulted his wife. His defense was temporary insanity.

RAILROAD COMPANIES NOW CONSIDERING WORK SLASH

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 22.—Principal railroad companies through out the country are considering reducing the working week of their shop forces to five days rather than reduce the number of employees, says the New York Times.

This reduction will be accompanied by a corresponding cut in wages.

AMERICAN FLIERS NEAR TOKIO ON WORLD TRIP

KASEMIGAU, Japan, May 22.—The three American army aviators flying around the world, arrived here at the Japanese naval aviation base, 50 miles northwest of Tokio, at 5:40 p. m. today. Their flying time for the 354 miles hop was five hours and 10 minutes. Their flying time for the day's two hops, they having reached Minato from Yettiforu island in the Kuriles this morning, was 12 hours and 40 minutes. The two jumps totaled about 650 miles, making the day's accomplishment one of the best thus far obtained.

This was the more notable in that within 15 hours they made their way from the bleak North Pacific region where they were hampered by storms and fog into a temperate climate where they probably can make up some of the lost time.

The aviators were in excellent condition upon their arrival here. They will stay here a week. They will overhaul their airplanes and install new engines.

WOMEN POLICE TO GUARD CONVENTION

Delegates to be Protected From Adventurers By Women Cops

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 22.—One of the many problems New York's police force will face during the Democratic convention next month will be to rid the city of characters known in police vernacular as "crashers" and "mashers." This task has been assigned to Captain Mary Hamilton, director of the feminine bluecoats. A crasher is a person, male or female, who craves excitement, company and entertainment and, not having the funds of the connections necessary for a legitimate satisfaction of the craving becomes addicted to polite "sponging."

The chronic crasher and masher, according to Captain Hamilton, are always seen at large public functions, political demonstrations, banquets, theatrical first-nights, big funerals, art exhibits and society weddings. They dress well. Their manners are irreproachable. They are, to all appearances, the acme of culture and refinement. In fact, they sometimes outshine the company they keep in these respects. Captain Hamilton knows dozens of them.

Strangely enough, the crashers are mostly women. But that other bane of the metropolis, the masher, is usually a male, as Captain Hamilton testifies and as police court records bear ample witness. "Sometimes we call them crashers," she explained. "We also know them, however, as 'chow-chasers' or 'outsiders' or 'bean pickers'."

"How do we spot them? Well, perhaps a hostess will call upon us to out an uninvited guest, or the guest at a hotel banquet finds her seat usurped by a stranger, and calls a house detective who in turn calls my department. Sometimes we are asked to escort them from theaters. Once we see one of them, we don't forget, and we find the same faces turning up everywhere."

It has been Captain Hamilton's experience that big conventions bring out the crashers in full force. The entertainment functions are so large, so few of the guests are acquainted with each other, that the way of the usurper is easy. He, or she, takes in everything on the program, dinners, theaters, auto tours, boat excursions, sightseeing rides, all free.

There will be all these during the forthcoming convention. And every crasher in New York will have a full date-book.

But Captain Hamilton will be ready for them, for, as she says, "My force has its 'rogues' gallery well in mind, and orders will be to eject, either by persuasion or by force, every crasher we spot at any of the convention doings."

Grocery Proprietor Is Believed Victim To Hi-jacking Party

(By the Associated Press)

PAWHUSKA, May 22.—H. P. Ensey, proprietor of a small grocery store near Denoya, an oil town in the Burbank field was slain by "hi-jackers" last night according to fragmentary reports from the town.

Two or three men took part in the robbery and slaying, officers here were informed. Ensey's body was found with five bullet wounds on the floor of the store.

The scene of the murder is isolated and officers who had gone there this morning had not reported shortly before noon, it was said at Denoya.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—A liquor treaty with Sweden similar to those already negotiated with Great Britain and Germany, was signed at the state department today by Secretary Hughes and the counselor of the Swedish legation.

Mayor Cargill Presents Key To City to Members of Editorial Group

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 22.—The business session of the thirty-ninth annual convention of the National Editorial association opened here today following a three days sight seeing tour in northern and eastern Oklahoma with the annual address of President Wallace Odell of Tarrytown, New York, the chief feature of the program.

Welcoming the editorial party to the state Gov. M. E. Trapp invited them to view Oklahoma in the light of conditions as they found them rather than as they may have been inclined by what the characterized as "recent disturbances" in the government of the state. He declared that sensational features of the statewide martial law regime imposed by former Gov. J. C. Walton were overdrawn and that at no time was the condition a correct criterion of the state's population.

The governor told the visitors that they would find Oklahoma "second only to that state from which each of you may come."

Mayor O. A. Cargill welcomes the editors and their wives to the city by presenting to President Wallace Odell a six-foot key which he declared would unlock every door in "the largest city in Oklahoma."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 22.—Alleging newspapers are partly to blame for the wholesale lack of respect for laws, "Wallace Odell, editor of the Tarrytown, N. Y., Daily News, and president of the National Editorial association, speaking at the association's convention here today, urged newspaper editors to do all in their power "to command respect for all laws, to refuse to publish so-called wet jokes to stand steadfastly together for the preservation of the American home, and support the constitution of the best country on earth."

"The press has a great opportunity and a great responsibility," Mr. Odell said. "What are we doing while laws are mocked? Foreigners are taking liberty that was never meant to be theirs. Justice is being miscarried, our high officers are voting dry and taking a drink whenever they can get it. Such hypocrisy in high office is not alone humiliating and disgusting—it is a disgrace."

"If we are moulders of public opinion, let us mould it that our people will be turned toward the church, our home and reverend respect for the Stars and Stripes. These with the school are the foundation stones of our country."

Mr. Odell's address, following his report of the administration of the National Editorial association, dwelt almost entirely with a defense of the dry laws and a plea for the retention of prohibitory statutes.

Castigating attendants at public dinners, "with flasks on their hips," the speaker declared that so long as prohibition is a law "every citizen should be a good enough American to respect the laws of his country and by his example compel others to do the same."

"Conventions with a 'wet' room in a hotel are popular ways to evade the laws nowadays by our so-called 'best citizens' and these practices are to be severely condemned," President Odell asserted.

Defends Prohibition

Defending "prohibition as a reducer of crime and misery, the New York editor averred "prohibition is right but it hasn't had a fair chance. When it first went into effect in New York state it was fairly well enforced."

"Our jails closed and our alcoholic wards were emptied. Bird S. Coler, commissioner of charities in New York city, came out with a statement saying that while he was a wet, he had seen the benefits of prohibition and he was for it."

"Then Al Smith was elected governor and he succeeded in having a 2.75 percent beer law passed. Immediately the old saloons resumed business and conditions began to get worse, and then the Mullan-Gage law was repealed and 2.75 percent was made of the prohibition law. You can't break down one law without losing respect for all laws. The wets say that prohibition is the cause for crime. If this is so, how is it that 82 percent of the law violators in my county are boys from 18 to 22 years of age? Boose hasn't made them criminals, but the lack of respect for the prohibition law has encouraged them to lose respect for all laws."

Stressing the importance of the "front page" make-up of a newspaper President Odell said "some editors fail to grasp the value of this window dressing."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
THE PEACE OF GOD, WHICH PASSETH ALL UNDERSTANDING, SHALL KEEP YOUR HEARTS AND MINDS THROUGH CHRIST JESUS.—Phil. 4:7.

PLAYING THE GAME OF SAFETY FIRST.

Said Abraham Lincoln, "I don't think much of the man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday." No truer words could be written of the Safety First Game. If you would be a winner, each day must find you wiser, keener and more alert than the day before. It is a contest in which we match our determination to have no suffering from accidents to ourselves and fellow men against little acts of thoughtlessness and carelessness that brings these results.

Nor is the game ever ended. Each day calls for a better score; new conditions surround us, and all of our faculties, the best that is in it must be safely done, and none of us wants any less than the best.

For your own sake—for the sake of the family at home, the wife and children, the mother or sister, play the game and play it well. Play it with the interest, the spirit, the enthusiasm that will make you WIN. It will take all your skill and ability to play it right.—Exchange.

The Democrats in most of the states have made their selections to the national convention and W. G. McAdoo and Al Smith are the only candidates to receive more than a mere handful of instructed delegates. Underwood made a poor showing. His strength would have come from the wets had not Smith been a figure, but Smith's approval of the bill to withdraw co-operation from the federal government in the enforcement of prohibition made him the prime favorite of the wet crowd and this accounts for a large part of his support. Of course if the two-thirds rule is adhered to both may be eliminated and a dark horse put on the track.

It is reported that Senator Pat Harrison who will be the temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention and sound the keynote in his address opening the convention, will stress harmony as the prime essential of Democratic campaign. It is certainly well put. In times past the party has lost out many times because it held in its ranks men who put their own selfish purposes and opinions above party loyalty. This time Democracy has a fine chance to win if the party members pull together. No man is going to have his way about everything but a platform broad enough for all can be drawn.

The movement to improve the park at the Byrd's Mill spring is proving popular with the citizens of Ada and a call has gone forth for volunteers to do some work down there Monday. The workers will leave the city hall at 8 o'clock and all who can get away are requested to be there at that hour to take a hand in the work. A day of physical exercise will prove beneficial to most people, anyway.

Announcement has been made of the sale of the Oklahoma Farmer, a Capper publication edited by John Fields. to the Oklahoma Publishing Co. Probably it will be merged with the Farmer-Stockman. John Fields is the pioneer farm publication editor of Oklahoma and in case he is not connected with the other paper he will be missed by those who have read after him for the past twenty-odd years.

We can't blame President Coolidge for refusing to take time away from his duties to shake hands with every curious visitor that drops in at the White House, but it is a trifle peculiar that he never thought about making an announcement of no more handshaking until after he had the nomination in his vest pocket. He probably never thought about putting it out sooner.

A sociologist has just announced the startling discovery that blonde women make as good wives and have as good tempers as brunettes. Our opinion has always been that it was what is inside a woman's head that counted rather than the color of her hair or eyes or what sort of paint she used on her complexion.

Some of the women leaders of Great Britain are demanding half the seats in parliament for members of their sex. If they insist on this a good many politicians of the day may be forced to one side to make room for the ladies.

Boston is finding a new use for wornout rubber tires. They are being made into paving blocks. If this proves a success it will create a steady market for the castoffs and streets paved with the material should be noiseless.

And now they say photos are being sent by telephone. Just one more step and one can see face to face the one he is talking with at the other end of the wire. Nothing is impossible these days.

Let a NEWS WANT AD get it for you.

SWEDISH ATHLETES BUSILY TRAINING

Physical Best of Sweden Now Preparing For Olympic Games

STOCKHOLM—Sweden's preparations for the Olympic games this year began immediately after the end of the 1920 Olympiad. The games are taken much more seriously in Sweden than in some of the larger states. The Swedish Olympic committee, a permanent body re-freshed with new members after each Olympiad, has been keeping its eyes on the promising athletes of the country, so that it will have little difficulty in making the final selection of the team to go to Paris.

The strength of the Swedes will be concentrated largely in swimming, light athletics and horsemanship. Only men believed to have a good chance of winning prizes will be placed on the team. Consequently, Sweden's delegation will be smaller than the national contingent that went to Antwerp four years ago.

In water sports the outstanding entry from Sweden is Arne Borg, who has been visiting Honolulu recently. His best records at several distances rank even, or almost so, with those of Johnnie Weissmuller, and, on more than one occasion, he has improved upon the times set by the Australian aquatic prodigy, Allan Charlton.

Nils Trolle, another swimming star of Sweden, has covered 100 meters in just a fifth of a second over one minute. The Henning brothers will enter events calling for swimming on the back. High and fancy diving events will also be contested by Sweden.

In the cinder path this country has no sprinters of outstanding speed, but in the longer races of from 1,500 meters onward, there are several first-class men available. The severity of the winter has hampered preparations for outdoor races.

The Swedish cavalry hopes to retain the high place it won both at Antwerp and eight years before at Stockholm. The stars of the former games will be mounted again this summer.

The modern pentathlon, to a great extent a military sport, is being eagerly anticipated. Many young army officers are developing their skill in the varied turns that make up this number in the sport program. All but the best of them will be eliminated in preliminary trials the end of May.

Among other sports which Sweden will enter are bicycle races, yachting and association football.

HISTORIC VINCENTS FORTRESS TO BECOME WAR MUSEUM

PARIS—The Vincennes fortress, just outside the walls of Paris, which withstood countless sieges and served as a prison for political offenders under Louis XIV and other Bourbons will become a war museum. It was here for long years that the "Man with the Iron Mask" is reputed to have been shut up, and against the walls of Vincennes the Duke of Enghien was executed in the dead of night by order of Napoleon.

The French Parliament, just before its dissolution, appropriated a sum of 2,000,000 francs, for the purpose of repairing the structure and gathering together all the arms and weapons available in the history of wars.

POLICE PHOTOGRAPHY IS BROUGHT TO FINE ART

NEW YORK, May 22.—A photograph studio, the largest and most up-to-date in the world, with a clientele of more than 50,000 persons and electrical equipment for developing photographs with lightning rapidity, has become one of the most important adjuncts of the New York police department.

Tricks of criminals to circumvent police photographers have become so futile that the old-time requirement that four detectives hold a prisoner for a pose is no longer necessary. The only delay nowadays is caused by vain women who powder and rouge or by "sheiks" who slick their hair.

Paris police not long ago sent over here a photograph of a man named "Hussey." New York police immediately recognized the portrait as that of the notorious "Dapper Dan Collins," despite the fact that when photographed in Paris he had thrust his head forward to give a distorted image.

The so-called "Diamond Bank robbery," in which two bank messengers were shot to death by a gang of holdup men, was solved with the aid of the police studio. One of the gang was known, and within five hours 4,000 copies of his picture were sent to police in all parts of the country. Fingerprints accompanied the portraits. A few days later Barlow M. Diamond, one of the gang, was recognized and caught in Cleveland.

But even more striking was the case of a trusted bookkeeper who disappeared when his accounts were found to be $20,000 short. Police sent his portrait broadcast. Three months later in an obscure western town the fugitive was recognized and arrested by the town's lone motorcycle policeman.

Clinton—Site purchased for erection of American Legion building.

Miami—Miami-Commerce road to be built to state line through Picher in near future.

Stillwater—Supplementary city water reservoir to be constructed at estimated cost of $200,000.

Irish Free State Estimates Show Saving Over Last Year

(By the Associated Press)

DUBLIN.—The total saving on the Free State budget in comparison with last year amounts to about $70,000,000. Of this saving a cut in the army of about $300,000,000 is the largest part. It is pointed out in the old Unionist press that allowing for the difference in the value of money, the British government spent $12,500,000 a year on maintaining public order in Ireland. Last year it cost the Free State over $67,000,000, and this is taken as the measure of the abnormality in Irish conditions.

The estimates of the finance minister for next year show an estimated deficit of some $43,000,000 which "will be found by borrowing or otherwise." A great part of the expenditure will go in payment for damage to property in the campaign by the irregulars against the Free State.

"Speejaacks" Delights Fans

As regards educational and entertainment value, the equal of the Paramount picture, "Around the World in the Speejaacks," which delighted audiences at the McSwain theatre yesterday afternoon and evening, has yet to be presented to the picture-going public. In fact, there has never been anything just like this marvelous picture ever shown in this, or any other city.

The story of this great adventure is widely known because of the wide newspaper publicity given the exploit. Commodore and Mrs. A. Y. Gowen of Cleveland, O., left New York in August, 1921, in a 98-foot motorboat, "Speejaacks," in which it was planned to circumnavigate the globe. On this expedition the little party sailed the seven seas and encountered many trials and hardships. But the Gowens accomplished their purpose and in so going marked an epoch in sea history.

If you revel in thrills, see "Around the World in the Speejaacks." There's heart interest, too, in the wedding of a lovelorn island couple by Commodore Gowen aboard his yacht where beyond the three mile limit, his word, as commander, is law. This is the finest travel picture we have even seen.

Record of Car Expenses Saves in Several Ways

The motorist who doesn't keep any record of his car expenses stands to lose in a variety of ways, but now he's out of luck. These gas taxes which he has been paying in many states may be deducted from his income. The same with state license fees. These are state taxes, and are accordingly deductible. Where the car is used for business the cost of ordinary upkeep charges and fuel is deductible, since it is an expense of running the business. Where the car is used for both business and pleasure the cost should, of course, be apportioned. But all this is like the Greek language to the car owner who simply pays out and never keeps a record of expenses. To those who keep records in a half-hearted way, or who think it might be advisable to try, this should be sufficient incentive to get out the little red memo book. It isn't anything at all when you do it in installments.

Hoboes Now Avoid New York.

NEW YORK.—The hobo is becoming extinct along the sidewalks of New York. A check-up by welfare societies of the "flap houses" on the Bowery and other favorite haunts of the genus bears out the statement.

The Hobo College, famed as an East Side hostelry for those of the roving nature, is still open to the public, but its registry cannot boast the records it used to.

Reasons advanced for the growing scarcity of the tramp are that he can no longer successfully meet both the demands of his conscience and those of New York employers.

FEW CAR OWNERS KNOW STEERING

Reasons Why Auto Is Hard or Easy to Handle Are Given by Prof. Greer.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

The average motorcar owner probably will be surprised to be told that he doesn't know what really good steering means. The reason is that so many factors contribute to helping or hindering the easy guidance of the modern car that many of them are entirely overlooked by most owners, and the result is that they consider satisfactory steering what is in reality very far from perfect.

To begin with, it is important that the front wheels shall be properly aligned if the car is to steer with maximum ease. Now all wheels are cambered and tied-in to a certain extent. The amount varies with different cars, but the owner should take pains at least twice a season to see that his wheels are properly aligned.

Improper Alignment.

Any time that the car is involved in a collision of any kind, even if it is with the curb, the wheel alignment should be checked up. Improper alignment results not only in hindering the steering of the car, but in excessive tire wear.

If the alignment of the wheels is found to be incorrect, it may be altered by manipulation of the tie rod. This latter is the rod which runs from one steering knuckle to the other, and which has a movable portion at either end. Hard steering is often caused by misalignment of the front wheels through an error in the tie-in.

In most steering systems the slack which develops may be taken up in two or three different places. The car owner should find out, to begin with, where the wear is greatest, whether in the gears at the bottom of the posts, in the ball joints or in other parts. A good beginning may be made by gripping the tie rod and moving it back and forth, thereby detecting play in this part, if it exists. Perform the same operation with the drag link or rod connecting the steering arm with the front axle. The ball joints may be adjusted by means of a nut which is located in the back of the spring.

Adjustment Provided.

To do this remove the cotter-pin, turn down the nut, insert the pin again and the job is done. If the play is in the gears there is usually provided an adjustment, placed just above the case in which the gears are housed. As a general thing it takes the form of a serrated nut, which is held in place by a slotted pin. The pin must be removed with a screwdriver, the nut being turned slightly, after which the pin is replaced. Each time the nut is turned it is well to try the steering wheel to see that the adjustment is having the desired effect.

Steering knuckles are held in place by a pin, on which the knuckle turns. If lubrication of this pin is neglected, excessive wear will result. There are a number of different types of steering knuckles in common use. All of these have bearings, and most of them employ bearing bushings. Replacement of these bearings is frequently necessary when excess play develops in this part. It is not too much to say that daily lubrication is essential to the continued life of the bearing.

NEXT FRIDAY TO WITNESS INFLUX OF CONTESTANTS IN ANNUAL COUNTY TRACK MEET

Friday, April 11, will see the gathering in Ada of school boys and girls from all parts of the county to participate and watch the annual county track and field meet which will begin Friday afternoon. The session will open at two o'clock of that day in the college auditorium with preliminaries in Arithmetic, piano, declamation, and reading for classes A and B.

The second general session will open at 7:30 p. m. of Friday evening at the Convention Hall with finals in chorus and oratorical events for all three classes of contestants. Saturday morning will see the events in spelling, penmanship, tennis run off, track events in class C held, and baseball begun.

Practically every school in the county will be represented in the meet, according to County Superintendent A. Floyd. Entries for all events are coming into his office rapidly and include full lists of contestants.

This meet will bring to Ada probably a much larger crowd of visitors than in the past, due to increased interest in such activities and to an enlarged list of events. Contestants are divided into three classes to encourage the smaller schools to take part in the gathering.

The winner of the three classes will receive attractive loving cups, now in the keeping of Mr. Floyd. In addition to the cups to the winning schools, individual point winners will receive gold, silver and bronze medals or blue, red or white ribbons depending on the class of event. Pennants will also be given to choruses, tennis, baseball, and relay winners.

Mr. Floyd states that the prizes will all be on hand by the time for the meet and that they will be delivered to the winners at the end of the contests.

High schools offering four years of work compose class A. All other high schools will be in class B and grade schools in class C. In addition, any student weighing less than 115 pounds and being less than fifteen years of age is eligible for competition in class C. Students will weigh in at eight o'clock on Saturday morning.

"A BOY OF FLANDERS"

Old and young will find "A Boy of Flanders" delightful entertainment. This Jackie Coogan production for Metro presents the child star in a role singularly adapted to his talents, and the Dutch costumes which he wears should make him more than ordinarily appealing to the feminine element of his audiences. In addition, the story has more than the usual quota of laughs and tear-compelling situations and the players are extremely capable partly because they are so perfectly cast. Many children supply atmosphere and comedy.

Director Victor Schertzinger has not developed the action rapidly evidently because of the wealth of opportunities for comedy touches and characterization. This comparatively slow movement of the plot—that is, according to prevailing motion picture standards—will not be noted by many, because of the story's human interest, the expertness of the acting and the beauty of the sets. An accusing finger can not be pointed at more than three of four scenes as unessential, for this very reason. The settings and the story would have suited Mary Pickford quite as well as Jackie Coogan; in fact, the picture is in some places reminiscent of a Pickford release.

Jackie's role is exactly right. As the vagabond boy looked down upon by the Dutch village, he does not have to make any pretense of dignity or reserve, but can be simply a lively, fun-loving kid, feeling the scorn of the village keenly, but, with the resiliency of youth, forgetting it when he feels like giving vent to the natural childish desire for fun.

Aiding and abetting Jackie in most of the fun is that wonderful Teddy, the Mack Sennett dog. Together the boy and dog experience the vicissitudes of life and yet get a lot of fun out of it. They are one of the greatest comedy and human interest teams of human and animal seen on the screen. Equally as cunning as Jackie is little Jean Carpenter, the ribboned object of his boyish affection, and a fat boy, whose

MODEL SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE

Over Eighty Schools in East
Central District Meet Requirements

The model school movement, begun during the past year, under the supervision of the state superintendent, has resulted in a rapidly growing number of one-room schools reaching the standard set for such designations. With a schedule of points required for various phases of the work of such schools to work toward interest has been great.

East Central district leads the state, according to W. C. Herring, who during the last year was put in charge of the rural school work of the district. The counties comprising the district have already a total of over 81 one-room schools which have reached the desired rating. Mr. Herring states that he is now recording model schools at the rate of about 12 each week.

Teachers of the district are working hard and Mr. Herring expects a grand total of a hundred and fifty model schools by the opening of the summer session.

Pontotoc county is well represented in the movement with fifteen model schools already to the credit of individual teachers.

The movement was begun in this state by Miss Victoria Lyle while a county superintendent and has in view the bringing of all the one-room, one-teacher schools of the state to a higher standard of work and to accomplish more nearly the same class of instruction.

STATE EXPENSES SHOW BIG GAINS

Parkinson Cites Figures on Enormous Increase
Since 1917

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4.—It has frequently been asked what becomes of the tremendous appropriations made for the expenses and support of state government, according to Fred Parkinson, state examiner and inspector.

In a statement issued by Parkinson he shows that certain expenses in state government have increased more than 100 percent since 1917.

The following are a few figures showing where some of the money goes:

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, there was expended for traveling expenses $136,818; for 1918, $157,163; for 1919, $174,279; for 1920, $288,738; for 1921, $274,677; for 1922, $279,048; for 1923, $307,731.

This shows an increase of 125 percent in 1923 in traveling expenses over the same item for 1917.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, the expense for telephone, telegraph, and postage was $62,965; 1918, $77,324; 1919, $96,534; 1920, $87,885; 1921, $96,802; 1922, $102,861; 1923, $118,970.

This shows a 90 per cent increase since 1917. There was expended for printing in 1917, $89,350; in 1918, $90,069; in 1919, $119,569; in 1920, $109,035; in 1921, $163,707; in 1922, $130,772; in 1923, $168,305.

This shows an 88 percent increase in the state's printing since 1917.

"I do not wish to convey the impression that this large increase in expenditures is... justifiable. I can certainly justify an increase in my own department. I simply give the taxpayers the figures and they can look for the 'little bird' in any direction they choose," Parkinson said.

Telephone conversations in the United States annually total about 24 billion calls.

BRIDGE OPENING
TO BE GALA EVENTGovernors of Three States to Be Guests at Dedication
Of Bridge

(By the Associated Press)
EL RENO, Okla., May 21.—Governors of three states have been invited to the opening of the new half million dollar steel and concrete bridge over the Canadian river on the Meridian highway, between Union City and Minco, south of here June 12.

It is planned to have Governors Trapp of Oklahoma, Neff of Texas and Davis of Kansas, meet in the center of the bridge and together dedicate the structure. According to Meridian highway officials Fort Worth citizens have assured them the Texas governor will be at the ceremony. The bridge has been under construction four years and according to highway engineers spans the "most treacherous river in the United States." Grady and Canadian counties voted bonds for the structure and financial aid was given by the state and federal governments.

Preparations are being made to take care of a crowd of 15,000 persons at the opening, according to chamber of commerce officials here. Several bands will be present and after the dedicatory service and the addresses a basket dinner will be served. Several platforms will be utilized in the evening for dancing.

CHICKASHA, Okla., May 20.—The Minco bridge, as the new structure across the Canadian river, north of here, will be known as the last link to be forged in the Meridian highway chain, stretching from Canada to Mexico City, according to Paul Riley, secretary of the Chickasha chamber of commerce.

The stretch from Union City, north of the river to Minco, south, was the worst on the highway, Riley said, and it has required four years to complete the road through the bottom lands and across the wide bed of the Canadian. The bridge had to be built to withstand the periodic floods which sweep down the river, usually a sluggish, meandering stream, Riley declared.

DUNCAN, Okla., May 20.—If plans of the committee on arrangements for the opening of the Minco bridge across the Canadian river, June 12, materialize a well-known woman moving picture star will break a bottle of water on the bridge in the crowning event of the dedication according to Frank Fuqua, president of the Oklahoma division of the Meridian highway association. The bottle will contain water from the Gulf of Mexico and a stream near Winnipeg, Canada.

Chambers of commerce in El Reno, Minco, Union City, Chickasha, Duncan, Marlow and Waurika are co-operating in making the dedicatory ceremony a success, Fuqua said. Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs from many points in Oklahoma will participate in the affair, he declared.

The completion of the bridge will complete the Meridian highway's system of roads from Winnipeg, Canada, to Mexico City, Fuqua said, who declared it was the longest international highway in the country.

Appeals on Drunk
Cases Now Swelling
Criminal Dockets

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 22.—The rapid increase in the number of appeals on liquor cases has added scores of cases to the criminal court of appeals dockets this year, according to Judge Thomas H. Doyle, veteran member of the court. The number of cases the court will review this year probably will exceed last year's total by 150, Judge Doyle believes. In 1923 the court received 460 appeals. Fully two-thirds of the cases appealed are from verdicts in prosecutions under the state liquor laws, the judge declared.

There are five appeals from death sentences now before the court. They are: Richard Birkes, sentenced to death for the murder of a bank employee at Ketchum in Craig county during an attempted robbery; Cleo Goben, convicted for participation in the murder of Russell Sprague, a Lawton service car driver; Elias Ridge, negro boy, sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Willie Adair, a white woman, in May county; Jack Doublehead, a Cherokee Indian and Walter Barclay, negro, convicted in a Pawnee county district court.

BOSTON, May 22.—With a movement under way to change the names of nearly 1,800 Boston thoroughfares, this city's tangled street situation, ever a bane of visitors and travelers, may be unraveled by next year insofar as duplication in names is concerned. Chairman John H. L. Noyes of the street commissioners has laid plans for one of the greatest municipal christening parties ever carried out.

Impressed more and more by the complications arising from the repetition of identical street names in various districts of the city, and sometimes even in the same district, Chairman Noyes has amassed figures and facts showing that Boston has six Washington streets and five Washington places within the city limits, not including Washington street north. He has found that there are six streets named after the well known Adams family and that in addition four "blind alleys" in various districts, go by the name of "Adams Place." Six other streets bear the name "West."

Altogether, the number of duplications reaches the enormous total of 3,100—this out of an aggregate of 5,484 avenues, courts, parks, places, roads, squares, streets and terraces.

On the list of 3,100 streets names where duplication occurs, approximately 1,300 distinctly different names appear. Basing their calculations on these figures, the officials have estimated that the difference represents the number of streets which must be renamed, approximately 1,800 in all.

Further perusal of the city's street lists reveals five Auburn streets, five Austin streets, five Elm streets, five Everett streets, five High streets, five Park streets, five School streets and four Brook streets and three Brooks places. Four streets bear the name of Allen and four more are named Allston. Similar instances occur almost indefinitely.

Chairman Noyes has admitted the magnitude of his task in finding 1,800 new names for thoroughfares. Besides soliciting suggestions from Bostonians, his board will study the street lists of other cities and towns in the United States, hoping here and there to find a name as yet unused in Boston.

RUSSELL BOUD LEAVES FOR MUSIC CENTER

Russell Boud leaves today for Crowley, and New Orleans, La., for a series of revival service engagements. Following these services he will spend the summer in the southern part of Texas as song leader and soloist in church services before going back to New Orleans for one more year's study in voice.

It is Russell's plan and ambition to go to New York for study in concert singing and oratorio work after finishing at New Orleans.

Ligon-Gaither.

The marriage ceremony uniting Miss Roberta Louise Gaither of Hickory and Mr. Bruce Ligon of Ada was solemnized at the home of the bride at Hickory Wednesday noon.

Simplicity marked the marriage ceremony uniting the couple, descendants of two of the oldest families in the county, with only members of the two families and very close friends present.

The ring ceremony was used in the rituals pronounced by The Rev. R. T. Blackburn, pastor of the First Methodist church of Ada.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. U. Gaither of Hickory, a merchant of that town, who is also popularly known here to a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Ligon is a member of one of the pioneer families of Ada and at present a prosperous young merchant, the manager of the Postoffice News Stand.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a short honeymoon in Galveston and other Texas points.

Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ligon will return to Ada to make their home.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED AT ANNUAL BANQUET

The banquet room at the Harris Wednesday evening, from eight o'clock until eleven, presented a scene long to be remembered by the members of the Junior and Senior classes of East Central College when the Junior Class was host to the Seniors at their annual banquet.

The long dining table with baskets of the class flowers—carnations and roses, for centerpieces was lighted with candles in crystal holders and overhead lights shaded in the class colors shed a radiant glow over all the partakers of this happy occasion.

The menu consisting of fruit cocktail, queen olives, radishes, baked turkey, English peas, candied yams, hot rolls, lettuce and tomato salad, brick cream, cake and iced tea was interspersed with music by the College band after which a program with Dr. Linseid as toastmaster was given.

Address of Welcome, Mr. Culbertson, president of Junior Class.

"Response," Gilman Mackin, president of Senior Class.

"Reminiscences," Edward Brents, Senior.

Violin solo, Miss Lillian Strite, head of violin department of the college.

"To the Girls," Moss Wimbish, Junior.

"To the Boys," Ruth Mount, secretary of Junior class.

Vocal Solo, Russell Boud, Junior.

"Poem, written and dedicated to Seniors 1924," Welborn Hope, Junior.

"Future of East Central," A. Linseid.

Dr. O. T. Corson of Oxford, Ohio, who was here to deliver the baccalaureate address to the College classes was introduced by Dr. Linseid and used as his theme as toast to the classes, "Wholecome Fun."

Those present other than members of the classes were Dr. O. T. Corson, Dr. and Mrs. A. Linseid, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Newcomb and Miss Marjorie Ballard.

"The Roslyn"—Six Rooms, Two Stories

Real Fire Prevention Offered in the Roslyn

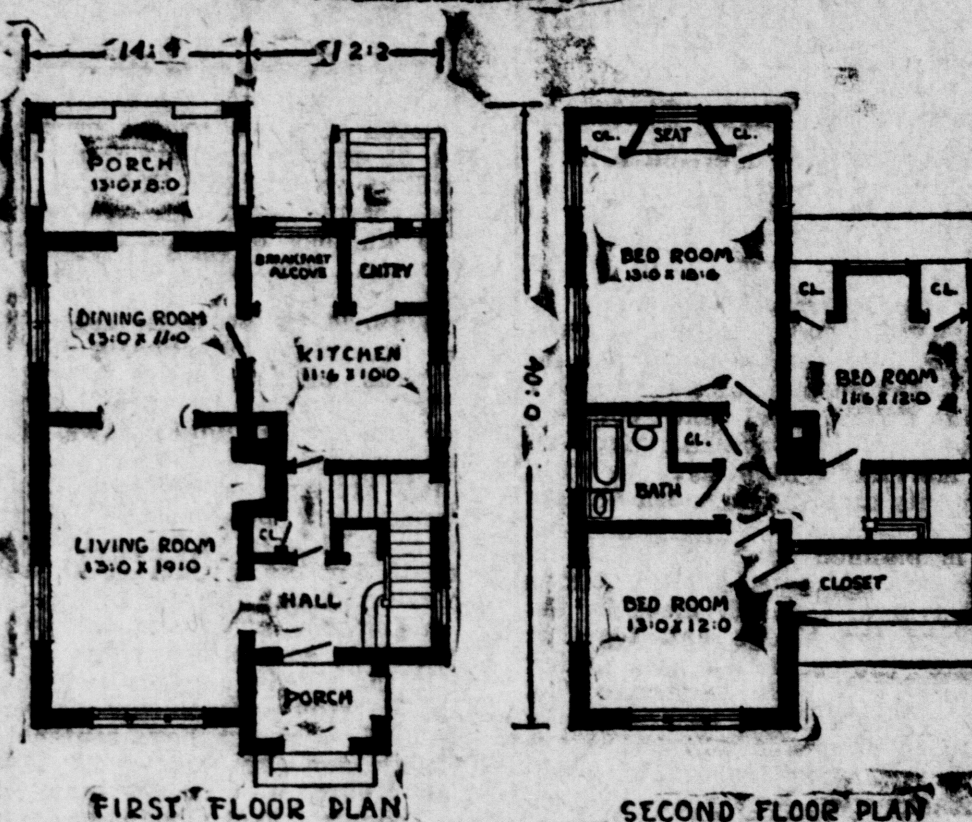

A fire insurance policy covers only financial loss by fire. Fire often destroys things that money cannot replace.

How can these things be insured?

The best form of fire insurance is fire prevention. You get such insurance when you build with materials that cannot burn, like concrete block and Portland cement stucco that are shown in the designs of the Roslyn, a charming English cottage. The roof is covered with fire-resisting shingles of concrete or asbestos.

The first floor plan contains a splendid living room. The unusual position of the fireplace provides a cozy corner that the hostess will be quick to appreciate. The dining room just beyond and the porch give a beautiful vista into the garden. The hall just inside the front entrance has plenty of closet space and leads upstairs, into the living room, or through a short hallway into the kitchen.

The kitchen will be a delight to any housewife. It is compactly arranged and has in connection one of the popular breakfast alcoves in which the morning meal and noon-day snack will usually be taken. A large entrance-way from the rear provides plenty of room for the ice-box and other things necessary to the kitchen.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

Closet space in addition to three good-sized bedrooms feature the second floor. The two bedrooms in the rear each have two closets, the bedroom furthest back having space between the closets for a seat which may open at the top and be used also for storage. The front bedroom has one closet of usual width, but has a depth of eleven and one-half feet. The bathroom is centrally located and is but a few steps from any of the rooms, besides being at the head of the stairs. All of the bedrooms have windows on two sides which insure good cross ventilation.

The attractive plan of the interior, coupled with the fire-safety and low maintenance of the exterior, makes this house the ideal one for a family of average size. It is but twenty-six and one-half feet in width and can be accommodated on a thirty-five foot lot.

GRAND RAPIDS, May 22.—While the Presbyterian General Assembly now in session, with its nearly 1,000 commissioners, is of such a size as to tax the seating capacity of the average church, future general assemblies will be a less unwieldy body if the proposal presented today by a special committee on the reduction of the size of the general assembly becomes a church law. The report is signed by Dr. William L. McEwan of Pittsburgh, chairman. It recommends a change in the Presbyterian form of government which would reduce the membership of the general assembly approximately one-half.

The committee reviews what it terms inequalities and injustices in representation of the Presbyteries and proposed readjustments intended to prevent a lot of small presbyteries from having as large a representation in assembly as have the great presbyteries.

The purpose of the committee's proposal is to enable the assembly to meet in churches which it can not now enter because of its size, to be entertained in smaller communities, and also to make the assembly more of a deliberative body and less of an expense to the denomination.

A newspaper is a community leader, the executive advised the editors.

"It should have ideas and it should fight for them," he said. It should back every worthy cause. Serve your community with all the power and all the leadership you possess. You can't make a better investment than in enlisting in the uplift of your home town."

The speaker told his auditors that the editorial page was being neglected by modern editors.

"Where has the influence of the press gone," the president asked. "Where are the Greeleys and Danas and Waterstones of the past? Bring back the strong editorials. Our country never needed guidance more than it does today. It never needed our support more than it does today. A newspaper without an editorial is like a man without an opinion. If you can't do anything else, see that you have a local editorial every week."

The past year has been fruitful "of results" for the National Editorial association, Mr. Odell informed the members.

"It has today the largest membership in its history and stands before the country as the strongest association of newspaper publishers and is recognized as such."

OLYMPIC SWIM POOL
LARGEST IN WORLD

(By the Associated Press)
PARIS.—The Olympic swimming pool at the Porte des Lilas, across the city of Paris from the Athletic Stadium at Colombes, is practically completed.

Long delays in construction and the immense cost, for the pool will stand the City of Paris 10,000,000 francs when completed, have caused to flow as much ink as would fill it; but the Olympic officials are sanguine that no further criticism will be forthcoming, and they are already claiming the distinction of having "the greatest swimming pool in the world."

The pool itself is 50 yards in length by 18 wide and five deep at the deeper end.

Accommodation for 10,000 people is provided in the Stadium which surrounds the pool and 40 dressing rooms are distributed underneath the stands. They comprise 750 separate cabins, permitting that number of athletes to dress at the same time.

The French realize that they have spent a lot of money in this affair, but the stadium was only the pretext; the swimming pool was the object. They say they have built a solid monument to water sports which will stand long after the 1924 Olympic games are forgotten.

Alberta Rich in Pulp

EDMONTON, Alberta.—Alberta has enough pulpwood to supply the western portion of the United States with newspaper paper for 50 years to come, according to a report compiled by C. H. Morse, chief ranger for the province.

"Pulpwood resources in the province," said Mr. Morse, "total 247,000,000 cords. There are 53,900 square miles of pulpwood forests. Pine composes about 45 percent of this growth, spruce 20 percent, poplar 25 percent and other coniferous varieties 10 percent."

Los Angeles Police Hear
Straight Talk From Victims

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—Chief of Police August Vollmer and his police captains recently instituted a new form of conference when they held a round-table discussion on crimes, its causes, and means for its prevention with the inmates of the Lincoln Heights jail here.

At a luncheon in the jail the prisoners, at the invitation of the chief, told the arms of the law just what they thought of policemen, courts and law enforcing general. Chief Vollmer said he learned much from the conference, including the following:

The character of men arrested should be more closely investigated by the arresting officer.

A court should be established to handle vagrants exclusively.

A sympathetic officer should be appointed to hear the pleas of these vagrants and those arrested on other petty charges.

Some of the remarks by prisoners that led up to these conclusions were:

By an Irish prisoner, called by his co-inmates, Sam: "These cops pinch us because that's their business and they don't care if we're innocent or not. If they get nothing real against us, we're canned on a charge of being vagrants and a boob judge gives us 90 days for having an empty stomach."

By an educated prisoner, who said he had made it his business to study crime from both sides: "There is, apparently, only one thing for a man to do when he is broke and hungry, and that is to 'knock somebody off.' I believe that the majority of small crimes is caused by that reason and no other."

By a gray-haired inmate, whom all saluted as Vincent: "Conditions are not going to be a bit better until the public is taught to place trust and confidence in the police department, and they will not show that trust and confidence until the department merits it. At present some policemen will lie and cheat to convict a man."

By an admitted bootlegger: "What I want to know is this: when you pinch a man and get 18 gallons of good whisky from him, why is it that the records show you confiscated only three gallons?"

Chief Vollmer asked for the names of officers who did this, but at a warning from other prisoners, the bootlegger sat down.

HONEST TO GOODNESS
COPPERHEAD IN STILL

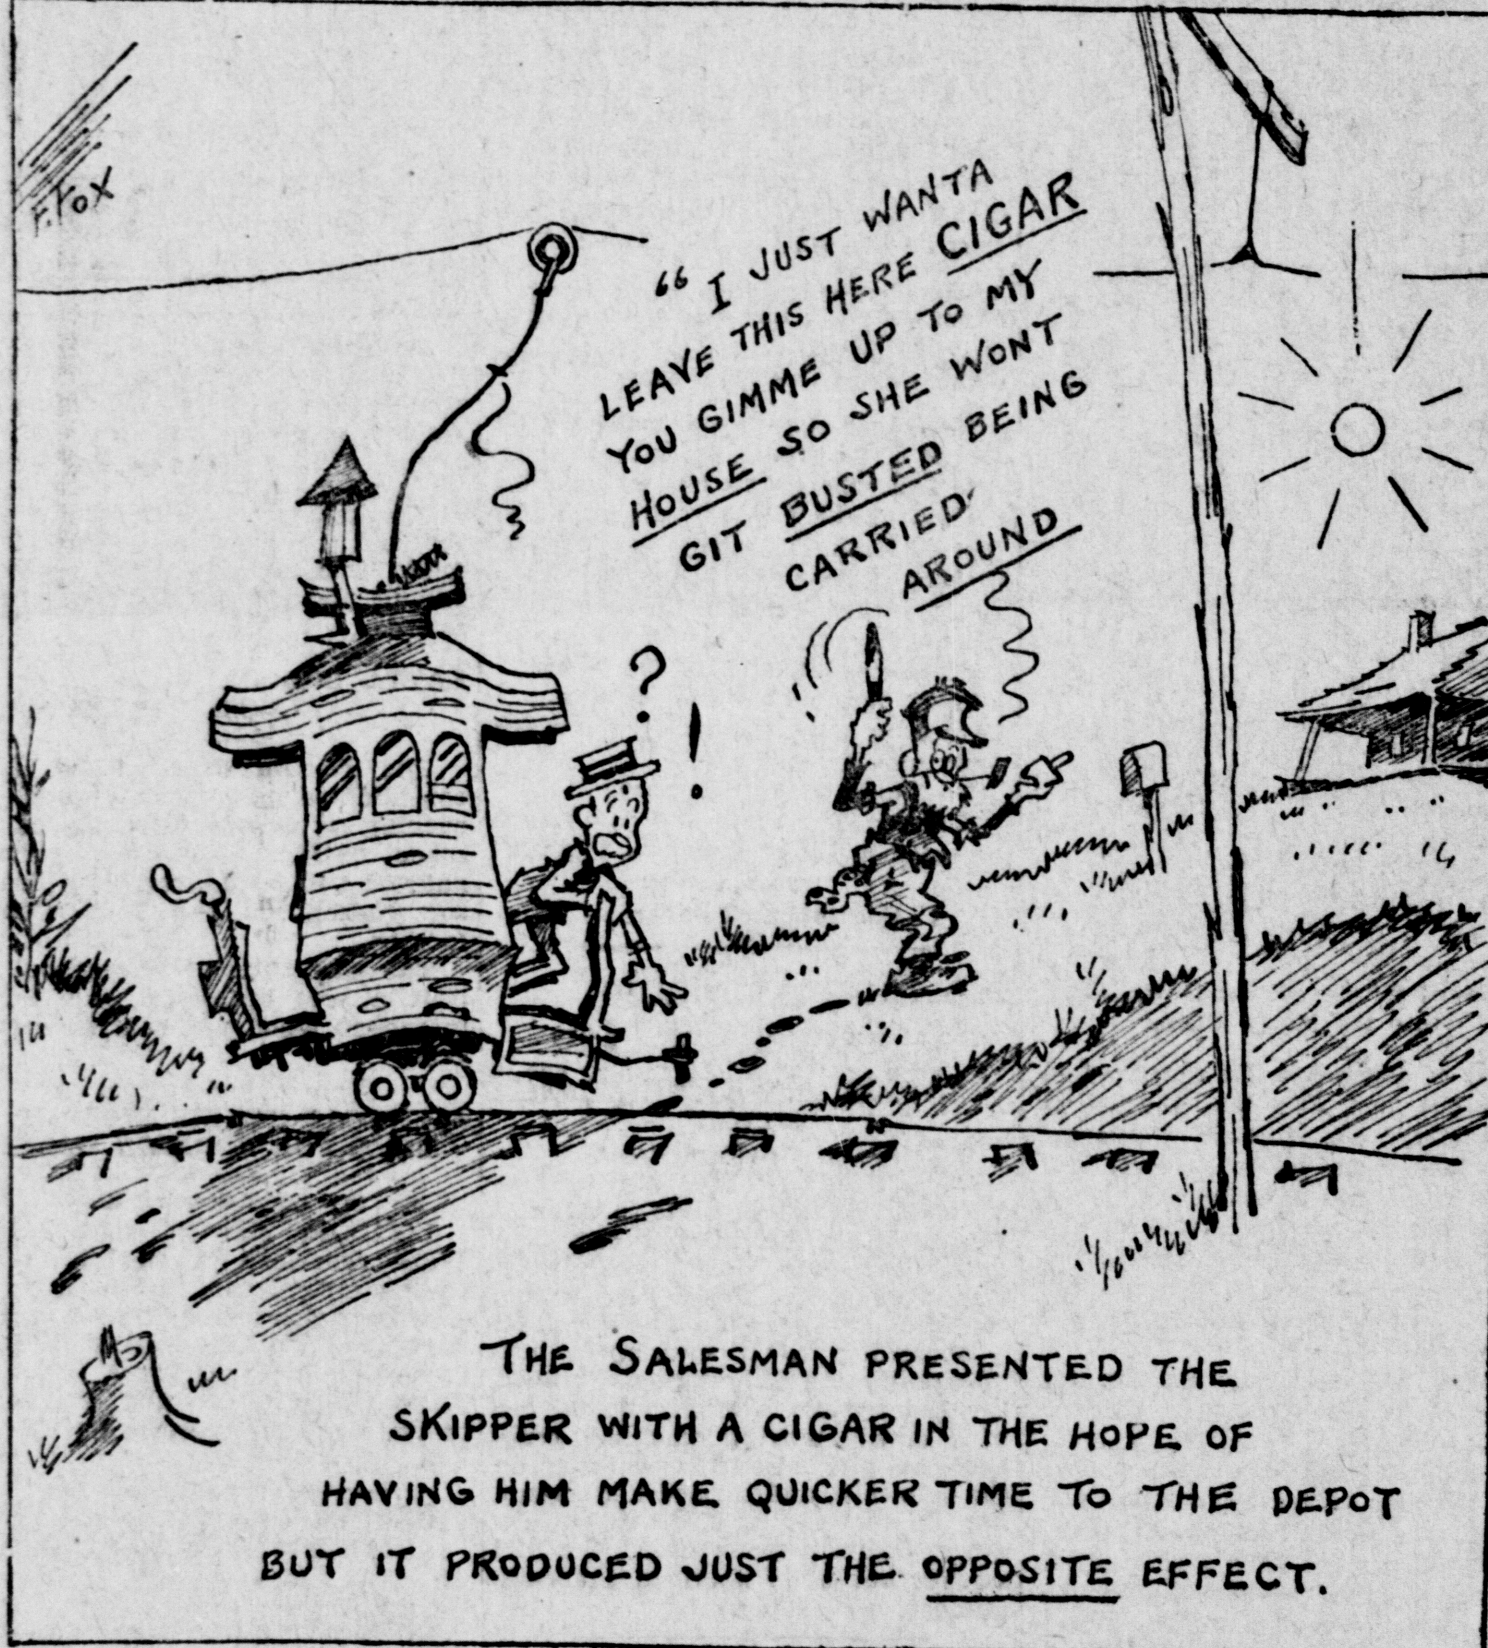

TULSA.—(Special).—That some of the moonshine liquor found in Tulsa county is productive of real live snakes was vouched for today by Fred Lawrence, undersheriff.

When Lawrence lifted the lid of a big copper boiler as he searched for liquor on a farm east of the city last night, a big poisonous copperhead snake sprang out at him. The head of the reptile just missed him and he quickly killed it.

Twelve gallons of corn whiskey were found concealed near the snake's hiding place by Deputies Quast, Mayfield and Murray, who head snake in the raid. H. P. Dean and E. B. Caver were arrested and when arraigned in county court today went to jail in default of $1,000 bond each.

Two gallons of liquor were found this morning by Sheriff Sanford and Deputy Jack Quast in a raid on the home of H. G. Cook at Lake Station. Cook and his son, Nelson, were arrested and were to be arraigned later. The boy threw out a quantity of liquor when the officers arrived, they said.

Cook is one of the men who tes-

MUTT AND JEFF—A Little Spanish Love Affair Ain't So Nice

By Bud Fisher

Pay Gravel

By
HUGH PENDEXTER

Copyright by The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

The gorge was reached and passed with no signs of the hard-riding horsemen. Scissors' simple face was very grave and he was studying the surroundings sharply.

"You seem to know lots about Indians," complimented Dinsdale, now throwing off his own abstraction.

"My mind is half red," murmured Scissors.

"Do you see anything to put you on edge?"

"I see nothing, but I feel. I'm wakan—I feel things before they happen."

"Sorehead has guessed our trick?"

"I feel red. It's Indians I feel. There must be a big band quite close to the hills."

"Nonsense," scoffed Dinsdale.

"I have been in the ghost lodge of the Ogalala and watched them bury the red cloth to please Untkelti, the water god, and his wife, the earth spirit. I have watched the circle dance, when they sang their songs to the Wakinyan, the thunderers. Many red men believe the white men are whipped and these hills are at their mercy. I dreamed of a thunder-storm a few nights ago. That means a fight."

"Your mind is red, all right."

"I refuse to believe many superstitions of the white men. Ahead is a branch of the Box Elder; we can camp there."

They crossed the head of the branch and halted at a bend where Dinsdale found the charred sticks of old campfires. Scissors picked up a rusty hunting knife and some empty cartridge shells.

"Not Indian," he said. "Too many fires. Too big. This must be where the Custer expedition camped in seventy-four on its outward trip from the hills."

To the east was a long ridge and beyond that the plains began. The travelers refrained from making a fire until after sunset for fear the smoke might be seen by their pursuers. They dined on cooked meat and bread brought from Calvin's eating-house. After filling his pipe Dinsdale endeavored to learn something more about his companion's experience when a captive of the Indians, also something about his earlier antecedents, his birthplace, and the extent of his schooling. But Scissors for once was not responsive. He idly snipped pictures of animals out of paper and explained they were lesser wakanas. When pressed for his private history he showed impatience, and answered:

"I forget. It was a very long time ago—before I became wakan with-shan. A mystery man forgets useless things. See, now; a new picture. I could always do it."

And folding the paper several times he worked with his usual quickness and then opened the paper to disclose a chain of horsemen, the horses going at a mad gallop.

"The fellows we saw riding up the stage road," said Dinsdale.

"If I could meet some of them in San Juan's place I could get a dollar for it," mused Scissors as he carefully refolded the strip of figures. "Old Calvin

Military Honors Are Inherited by Stillwater Cadets

STILLWATER, May 22.—Military honors won by Oklahoma A. and M. college students this year were climaxed with the award of a distinguished service cup to Cadet Lieut. Col. Wayne W. Smith, of Stillwater, at a special chapel service at which Bradford Knapp, president of the institution presided.

Smith is a senior in the school of engineering. He is a member of two honorary fraternities, Scabbard and Blade, military, and Sigma Tau, engineering. He is a second lieutenant in the U. S. army officers reserve corps.

Award of the distinguished service cup is an annual event at A. and M. The cup is given by Alfred Drummond of Hominy, who was graduated from the college in 1915. Drummond served as a captain in the army during the World war. He now is a stockman. Winner of the cup is chosen by army instructors at the college, headed by Col. James Ronayne, U. S. army, retired, commandant of cadets. Basis for the award is service to the college cadet corps.

REVIVAL MEETING PROGRESS- ING AT ASBURY METHODIST

The revival meeting of the Asbury Methodist church is progressing very good. Rev. Davis, took for his subject, "The Three Ks—Kickers, Knockers and Kneelers."

He is a very forceful speaker and his message brought conviction. So far there has been six conversions two of them last night. He will speak to the High school students tonight. And Sunday evening at three o'clock he will preach to men only.

Services begin at 8 p. m. Every-one welcome.

wanted me to pay him a percentage for all I sold in the gambling hall, I wouldn't do it. The girl dealing Twenty-one wouldn't let him order me out. I hope nothing happens to Sitting Bull while I'm gone. The Chinese cook said he would feed him just as I told him to. I think he will; he's afraid of me. Calls me a 'devil man.' I told him if the owl wasn't all right when I got back I'd make many pictures of him without his queue. He squealed like a rat. Ah! I hear an owl now. Some one's ghost is trying to tell me things."

"You give me the creeps," sleepily said Dinsdale.

They had rigged an extra blanket over some low hanging branches as a protection against the dew, and Dinsdale crawled under this and was soon asleep. Scissors remained for an hour, blinking at the coals and absent-mindedly playing with the scissors. A long-eared owl called to the eye of the fire and a timber wolf howled dimly. Covering the coals with gravel the picture man crawled in beside his companion.

Sunrise was free from fog and the two were up with the first light and eating their prepared food. Scissors was still apprehensive of danger, for he would have no fire kindled. They went without coffee, and the omission made Dinsdale sullen.

Shortly before noon they rode through the dry bed of Elk creek and by mid-day arrived at Bear creek. Halting at Bear only long enough to rest their mounts and swallow some meat and bread they entered a wide valley, running north and south, with Bear butte showing six miles ahead. They camped on the lower fork of Bear Butte creek and Dinsdale's mood improved when Scissors kindled a fire and placed the coffee on to boil. Scissors, too, was in a better humor and he made an elaborate picture of the flat-topped butte.

"What are they saying about me to Deadwood City, Scissors?"

The picture-man seemed to be befuddled for half a minute. He stared at Dinsdale stupidly while his wits tried to formulate an answer. At last he blurted out:

"You ain't blamed for killing Bandy Allen. Some men whisper that you're a road-agent. Others offer to bet you're a train robber."

"How would you bet?"

"Train robber," was the prompt reply; and Scissors reached in his pocket for another piece of paper. "You have more style in throwing money around than the agents have."

"Still you think it's safe for me to go back to town?"

"I'm a mystery man. I see things other folks don't see. There's a woman who'd do you harm, yet she'd act foolish if you'd be kind to her. She's talking and trying to make medicine against you. But folks think she's jealous. San Juan Joe is your friend. He speaks good words to the men of the city council about you. He tells them you're going into a business deal with him. Then there's the way you came through Red canyon. Folks can't forget that. Every time they see the little girl they remember that. All that's against you is just talk. Bad talk."

"Scissors, I sweep my hat low to you. You have some brains. I believe you've read the cards right—all except about the jealous woman."

"Every one believes that. The woman shows it in lots of her talk. There's no other explanation for the way she gets after you. The town was stirred up a bit over Allen's death for a day or so, but now decent folks are glad he's dead. If you go back and quiet down no one will trouble you."

"San Juan tells every one you and he are to organize a flume company to supply hydraulic power. That catches every one's fancy. Six men killed by Indians within four miles of Deadwood since you went away. Patrick and Saulsbury offer five hundred reward for the capture of any man who helped run off twenty head of their best stock from the French Creek station. They threaten to stop their stages if the horse thieves aren't caught pretty soon. So you see the gulch has other things on its mind besides you and your doings."

"I see. Am I strangers in town?"

Scissors gaped in mild amazement.

"Strangers? Why, you must know they're coming and going all the time. Only they don't go far because of the Indians."

Dinsdale puffed his pipe in silence for a minute, then asked:

"Ever you hear anything about a fellow called Omaha?"

Scissors pursed his lips and screwed up his whimsical features in an effort to remember. Then he slowly said:

"Name sounds familiar. Maybe it's because of the city by that name. Queer name for a man to have."

Dinsdale lapsed into meditation and did not hear the rambling talk of his companion, including a lengthy explanation of the various Siouan cults. He revealed his abstraction when he suddenly inquired:

"See anything of the girl I brought out of Red canyon? Lottie Carl is her name. She's staying with Widow Colt."

Scissors nodded eagerly.

"I've seen her on the street with Mrs. Colt. She never goes out alone. That makes me remember something else—Kitty the Schemer went to the Colt house. The widow sent her out flying. They say Kitty was mad enough to chew up a harness. I'd forgotten all about that."

"So?" gritted Dinsdale. "How much more have you forgotten?"

"I don't know," was the frank reply. "Probably a lot. Since I became wakan I've forgotten lots of foolish stuff."

"Please don't forget we're going back to Deadwood City. When do we strike for the gulch?"

"We're wide of the stage road, and better so," readily replied Scissors. "Those men on horseback will string out and trail along in twos and threes right into the gulch. Some of them will even risk riding into the town. Each one will be watching out for you. If we follow the middle branch of this creek to its head we'll be only a few miles south of Deadwood. There's an old trail that we can take."

"Listen, Scissors; I'm not afraid of those horse thieves trying any game close to Deadwood. Let's take the most direct way to town. I'm keen to get back."

Scissors grinned cunningly.

"Strike right out and have you get into a fight?" he said. "You'd say you'd killed a horse thief. How would you prove it? The town would say you're a natural-born gun fighter and always looking for trouble. They'd remember you left a dead man behind when you lit out with Pyrites. It would never do to mark your return with another dead man. San Juan Joe said—I just remember it this minute—that you couldn't stand having another killing to your credit till the first one is forgotten. He has lots of influence in town, but he can't use it all up on one man."

Dinsdale took a few farewell puffs at his pipe and knocked out the heel, and surrendered.

"I'm not looking for trouble. I'm ready for the middle fork of this creek. We'll make town as soon as possible and without making the eagle scream."

"That's my notion," heartily endorsed Scissors. "Turning in? Think I'll sit up a while and think things out. I don't sleep well. Too many dreams. Some are bad. Price a man pays for being wakan."

Nor did Dinsdale rest well that night. He dreamed of Lottie Carl being in the power of Kitty the Schemer, of Mayor Farnum suddenly turning into a savage, of San Juan being killed in a fight. He was up early and wondering what could be the matter with his nerves. He walked some distance from the camp in the hope that exercise would clear away his feeling of depression. He found where some one had dug into the marly shale, and, being ignorant of geology, was much surprised to discover fish spines and a coiled cephalopod in the broken formation. He carried his discoveries back to display to Scissors. The picture-man was setting out the last of their meat. Finishing his task he explained:

"Either Indians, while hunting for a new medicine, or the men with the seventy-four expedition did it. The expedition quit the hills along about here, for they visited Bear butte. We can visit the butte, too, if you care to. It's only five miles from here and but a short distance beyond the middle fork, where we're bound for. Won't take more'n thirty minutes to climb it. From the top we can see all over creation. If Easy and his friends are between us and Deadwood they'll be sure to have a camp and show a smoke."

The conical mass of Mato Tipl, rising abruptly from the plains to a height of twelve hundred feet, presented a singular appearance and one that appealed strongly to Dinsdale's love for the unusual. Already it had a distinct personality for him, an atmosphere resting on legends and the beliefs of the red men. On being questioned Scissors said it was difficult to climb unless one followed paths from the northwest or southeast sides. "Do you want to visit the top?" asked Dinsdale.

"Only for the sake of looking for a hostile smoke. If alone I'd want to go, as it was there, at the top of Mato Tipl, that I gave the Ogalala Teton the slip. I went with a hand to place small rocks in the trees in memory of the dead. I came down the southeast slope in the dark."

"An hour or two won't make any difference. We'll climb it and have a look around," agreed Dinsdale.

Secretly pleased at this decision Scissors brought up the horses and a short ride brought them to the middle fork of the creek. Splashing through the shallow waters Scissors led the way toward the southeast slope. As they advanced the mystery place became even more interesting. Dinsdale was surprised to discover he was anticipating pleasure from the trip.

and Dinsdale was astounded at the abrupt change in his companion's deportment. It was as if the influence of Mato Tipl, the Grizzly Bear lodge, had reached down and gripped the picture-man and had stripped him of reason. From his pocket he produced the string of horsemen, cut out at the former camp, and, singing in the Teton dialect, proceeded to detach the foremost rider and pin the long strip and the single picture around Dinsdale's hat.

"What the devil!" sharply demanded Dinsdale, submitting to the decoration because of his surprise.

"Don't do anything. Don't look. Don't say anything. Don't touch a gun. We've run into a trap," whispered Scissors.

"Indians?" muttered Dinsdale, standing motionless.

"In the scrub just beyond the mouth of the path. They'll riddle us if we try to mount. Do as I do and show no fear when they break cover."

He knelt and began picking up small rocks, scattering for those round and unweathered. Dinsdale dropped down beside him and blindly imitated his example. And as he picked up the stones Scissors sang in English the song he had sung in the Teton:

From everywhere they come flying. From the north the wind is blowing to earth. Rattling, flying, they come, they come. From everywhere they come.

He ceased singing and made a little mound of the stones, using those Dinsdale had collected as well as his own. On top of the pile he placed his picture of Mato Tipl with a single stone to keep it from blowing away. Then rising to his feet and throwing back his head so as to gaze at the top of the butte he shouted in the Teton:

"Men from the earth we are. I have sung about something, for which have pity on us!" To Dinsdale he whispered: "More rocks and do as I do. I have repeated a Teton prayer to Tunkan."

No Clue Available In Search for Men Who Kidnapped Girl

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, May 22.—With every available clue to the kidnapping of a girl by two men in a motor car in a downtown district last night, police today were unable to shed any light on the incident.

According to a messenger boy, apparently the only witness, one of the kidnappers, a man, jumped out of a slowly moving machine, grabbed the girl who was walking on the sidewalk, and carried her screaming to the car and drove rapidly away. Other persons heard the girl scream but none obtained the car's number, police say.

Petrified Egg of Extinct
Animal Discovered in Idaho
BOISE, Idaho, May 21.—A schoolboy playing in the sagebrush a few miles from Kuna recently picked up what is believed to be a petrified egg. Speculation is now rife as to whether it is that of a dinosaur and similar to those found some time ago in the desert of Gobol Mongolia.

In size the Idaho specimen is four and thirteen-sixteenths inches long and three and nine-sixteenths inches in diameter. The outer surface is dark ochre in color, the inside a dirty lemon, and it shows complete mineral replacement.

Some time ago the remains of a five-footed horse were discovered near Homedale, and once the skull of a rhinoceros as found embedded at the head of Pickett Pin creek, near Idaho City.

Specialist's New Treatment BANISHES CATARRH

Relief in 24 Hours Postively
Guaranteed—Or It Costs You Nothing

Thousands who used to suffer with disagreeable and disgusting Catarrh—with obnoxious nasal discharges, dropping in the throat, foul, offensive breath, clogged head and thickened speech—have quickly become entirely free of this nasty scourge—often within 24 hours—through a remarkable new internal and external treatment developed by a Cleveland specialist.

It is known as the Rinex-Tarkon treatment and is based on the latest medical discoveries. These prove that Catarrh is not a simple surface disease, but is more often the result of poisons in the system which the system is trying to throw off through the mucous membranes. More surface treatment like sprays, salves and inhalations cannot possibly get at this internal cause. But Rinex, taken in simple capsule form, goes direct to these poisons throughout the system and neutralizes them while Tarkon, applied as a nasal and throat wash, cleans, instantly soothes and quickly heals the swollen nasal membranes. So every disgusting symptom disappears within 24 hours.

No matter how long you have had Catarrh or how many other methods of treatment you have tried without lasting relief, the Rinex-Tarkon treatment is guaranteed to relieve you within 24 hours—or it costs you nothing. Try it today on this money-back guarantee.

Free Trial Offer.
Just now, through a special introductory arrangement, you can obtain a 24-Hour Treatment entirely FREE. Simply go to any of the drug stores named below and ask for a trial package.
